FIRM FINED OVER DOUBLE TRAGEDY

By Adrian Colley

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A HARINGEY construction company has been fined more than £500,000 after two men died when they fell into a building site it operated.

Monavon Construction, of Thorold Road, Bounds Green, pleaded guilty to the corporate manslaughter of Gavin Brewer, 32, and Stuart Meads, 34, at a hearing at the Old Bailey in May.

Sentencing took place at the Old Bailey on Monday last week at which time the company also admitted a Health and Safety at Work Act offence of failing to discharge a duty to a non-employee.

Monavon Construction was responsible for a building site in Netley Street, central London, for about three years and construction was nearing conclusion.

Part of the site bordered Netley Street and plywood hoardings had been put in place covering the pavement.

Work began on October 14, 2013, to change the hoarding so the pavement could be reinstated and four days later this work had been completed, leaving the hoardings, measuring about four feet in height, fixed by wooden struts to a wall.

Behind this wall was a drop of about 12 feet down into a basement area.

One day later Mr Brewer and Mr Meads were walking along the street and were arguing and scuffling with one another.

As they walked past the building site, they made contact with the hoarding, which gave way, sending both men falling into the basement area.

Both men were pronounced dead at the scene following the fall.

The Metropolitan Police launched a joint investigation with the Health and Safety Executive.

The investigation found that the hoardings had been fixed in such a way that only negligible force would have been required to make them give way.

Monavon was fined £250,000 each for the deaths of Mr Brewer and Mr Meads and £50,000 for the health and safety breach. The firm was also ordered to pay £23,653 prosecution costs.

Jailed: Charaf El Moudden

Burglar jailed for five years

A 26-YEAR-OLD Haringey man has been jailed for five years for a burglary committed while his victims were at home.

Police were called out to reports of a burglary in Trevelyan Gardens, in Brondesbury Park, north-west London, at about 6am in November last year.

El Moudden, of Sydney Road, was arrested following an investigation and charged with one count of burglary. He was convicted at Harrow Crown Court last Wednesday and given the five-year prison sentence.

Detective Constable Karen Beck, from Brent CID, said: "This was a terrifying experience for the two young women victims as they were at home at the time when this man attacked and entered their property."

"I hope this conviction sends a message that the Met Police will do all it can to pursue, apprehend and bring to justice callous criminals of this nature."

Fitness regime pays dividends

A FITNESS fanatic is shrugging off advancing years for a huge challenge to raise money for a good cause.

Andy Judt, 49, is doing 25 fitness sessions in a month, with proceeds going to The Brain Tumour Charity.

So far he has raised £690, which will help fund research into how to defeat tumours.

Andy will be taking on the 25 sessions as a member of BMF (British Military Fitness), which claims to be the toughest way to get fit.

The finance director, from

Crouch End, said: "I lost my father to a brain tumour when I was very young and obviously the impact on my life was enormous."

"I decided that I wanted to do something really valuable that had the ability to change the lives of other people affected by a brain tumour."

"BMF has definitely kept me young – other members are genuinely surprised when I say I am nearly 50."

"It is already tremendously exhausting, but I know once I have completed the month, it'll all have been worth it."

Failing A and E shows signs of improvement

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

THE crisis-hit A and E department at the North Middlesex University Hospital has "turned a corner", a report published today (Wednesday) by a health watchdog concludes.

But more needs to be done, according to the Care Quality Commission, after the hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, was rated inadequate following a surprise inspection earlier this year.

The CQC returned to the A and E department last week, having issued a warning notice after April's inspection, which said patient safety needed improvements. It also found that a shortage of middle grade doctors had put pressure on the department and recommended medical care needed improvement.

Julie Lowe, chief executive of North Middlesex University Hospital NHS Trust, is currently on leave, and Libby McManus, from the Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust, has taken on the post as interim chief executive. The Royal Free's boss David Sloman will act as interim accountable officer.

The CQC's chief inspector of hospitals Sir Mike Richards said: "North Middlesex University Hospital is one of the busiest A and E departments in London, so it is worrying that we found there were not enough experienced doctors on call to deal with demand."

Corner turned: North Middlesex University Hospital still has a way to go

Sir Mike said last week's inspection found the emergency department "has turned a corner, but there is still much more that needs to be done."

A new clinical director, Dr Turan Huseyin, has just started work at the A and E department, along with five senior doctors on loan from other trusts.

Enfield North MP Joan Ryan said she feared that changes with key roles filled by Royal Free staff signalled "a takeover by another name".

Last week Enfield MPs met government health minister Ben Gummer and stressed the importance of the A and E department.

Motorist in hospital after A10 collision

A MOTORIST is in a serious but stable condition in hospital after the car he was driving was in collision with a van in Enfield on Monday.

The accident happened at 6.15am on the A10 Great Cambridge Road at the junction with Church Street and led to widespread rush-hour traffic chaos and buses being diverted.

The 20-year-old car driver was treated at the scene by medics and taken by ambulance to the North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton.

His injuries are not believed to be life-threatening. The van driver was uninjured.

Detectives from the Met Police's Roads and Transport Policing Command are investigating and are appealing for witnesses.

Anyone with information is asked to call the Serious Collision Investigation Unit's dedicated witness line at Chadwell Heath Traffic Garage on 020 8587 4874 or via 101.

Teachers strike

HUNDREDS of Enfield pupils had the day off yesterday (Tuesday) following strike action by teachers.

Schools in the borough were closed due to the one-day stoppage called by the National Union of Teachers.

The dispute is over education funding cuts as well as teachers' pay and workloads.

Charity runners: Friends Mikaela Greenwood and Amelia Prigmore

Raising money for epilepsy research

TWO friends whose lives have been affected by epilepsy in some form or another will be running to raise money for research into the condition this weekend.

Amelia Prigmore, 24, of Bush Hill, and Mikaela Greenwood, 27, from Muswell Hill, are taking part in the Vitality 10k run in central London on Sunday.

They are running for the charity Epilepsy Research UK, a cause close to both their hearts as Mikaela suffers from epilepsy while Amelia is familiar with the condition, which causes seizures.

Amelia, who works as an office and marketing manager for an architectural ironmongers and Mikaela, who is a project manager, are running as part of Team ERUK (Epilepsy Research UK).

"We try to do anything we can to support this charity," said Amelia. "We're hoping to complete the run in 90 minutes and we have been training hard for it as it is the first time we have tried something like this."

"Mikaela's condition is medically controlled, so she is not at any risk," she added.

The pair are hoping to raise £800 and their sponsorship web page can be found at www.justgiving.com/amelia-mikaela

Pink Floyd drummer finds money for musical festival

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

PINK Floyd drummer Nick Mason has given a festival at an Enfield beauty spot a helping hand.

With just a few days to go to fund the £2,149 needed towards staging the Firs Farm Wetlands Festival, he stepped in with a £750 donation.

However, with under a week to go before the deadline this Saturday (July 9) to go, festival organisers are still £466 short of the target they need to help fund attractions at the event such as pony rides.

If the total is not reached, donations are not collected by the crowdfunding site Spacehive.

Toni Guiver, who set up the park wetlands and nature reserve at Firs Farm, in Firs Lane, Palmers Green, in 2013, said: "We had a fabulous donation from Nick Mason. He wrote to support the project last year and has also given us some drum sticks that he signed and a CD to auction."

He heard about Firs Farm through a friend of a friend, said Ms Guiver, but it is not thought he has visited the area.

The support from the Nick and Annette Mason Foundation has given the festival on Saturday, July 16, a boost and the Pink Floyd memorabilia will be auctioned during the day.

She added: "It's about making the day more special for the community. We want to have a long-lasting impact so people want to love and protect their green space and want to value it as part of their life."

She said she had invited the drummer to perform at the festival.

Another celebrated drummer on her dream guest list is Winchmore Hill resident Clem Cattini, from the Tornados, who shot to fame with number one hit Telstar in the 1960s.

Attractions at the festival include music from 13-year-old Winchmore Hill resident Owen Edwards and his band, the Big K Music Group, Michael Hill Exchange, Mete and London Fusion.

The event runs from 11am to 7pm. The crowdfunding appeal is at www.spacehive.com/firs-farm-wetlands-festival

Dog grooming graduates to offer pooch pampering

PAMPERED dogs are in for a boost after the first crop of students graduated from a new course.

Eleven teenagers have completed their training at Capel Manor College's dog grooming parlour.

The mutt mollycoddlers have spent a year honing their skills and ensuring canine customers emerge at their beautiful best.

Pampered pooches can be washed, shaved and have their nails clipped for about £15 a time, although there could be higher charges for big dogs.

Course manager Charlotte Green said: "It's been a very successful first year and many of our students are getting employment. They did a City and Guilds certificate and the course lasted a year. It was so popular we will be adding a day course."

The dog grooming course was based at the Princess Royal College of Animal Management and Saddlery Centre, which opened last year at Capel Manor, in Bullsmoor Lane, Enfield.

The course has ended, but appointments are being taken for Wednesday afternoons and Thursdays on 08456 122 122.

Paul Everitt, head of leisure and culture at Enfield Council, said it was a "wonderful, magical event".
He said: "It's all about imagination and free spirit and letting children make their own fun."
"It is aimed at families with young children and loads of youngsters turned up dressed as fairies, wearing wings – and some adults, too."

"I think the parents love it because it's old-fashioned, with not a computer in sight."
As well as live music, there were lots of opportunities to take part in arts and crafts, making wands and wings.
The event, organised and run by the Funky Festival Company and Friends of Forty Hall Park, was hailed a great success, with more than 3,500 people buying tickets over the two days. Proceeds will go towards the conservation of the Forty Hall Estate and Forty Hall.

ONE motorist has racked up £650 in fines for getting caught at the yellow box junction where scores of drivers have complained they have been treated unjustly by the council.

Motorists are not supposed to enter the hatched area at box junctions unless access is clear, but many drivers say it is impossible not to get stuck at the box junction in Carterhatch Lane, Enfield, when driving from their side road.

Since new cameras were installed many motorists have fallen foul of them with one captured stuck in the box on ten occasions and being issued with ten £65 fines, it has been revealed.

The driver appealed against each of them. Four were waived by the council, but the others were upheld and the motorist has a £390 bill to pay.

Twenty-one motorists received five tickets or more between April, when the camera was introduced, and the beginning of June.

Ten cars received five tickets, with five motorists getting six fines through the post. A further three drivers got seven fines and two cars notched up eight fines each.

Enfield Council also revealed that 195 cars were issued with two tickets each.

A spokeswoman said: "The rules of the Highway Code are very clear. You can only enter a yellow box to turn right, or as in this case, to cut across Donkey Lane, otherwise you will be liable for a penalty charge notice."

She added: "It is worth noting that the yellow box in question has been in place for two decades and was actually repainted last year and no concerns were raised about exit issues from the slip road."

The council is considering more than 200 appeals from motorists caught out by the new cameras and has already cancelled 242 fines.

Resident Elaine Perkins has had an appeal turned down and plans to fight the decision in the courts.

She says the council should have warned people about the new enforcement and leafleted nearby streets.

Many of the people with several tickets were local residents who are now driving a long way round to reach their home, she said. However, she pointed out the consequence of the council's move was to drive extra traffic past schoolchildren, which the local authority wanted to avoid.

Chase ward councillor Nick Dines said: "The Carterhatch junction road layout is far from perfect and many residents are getting trapped. From Linden Gardens, Linden Avenue and the Great Cambridge slip road, thousands of pounds must have been raised from unsuspecting, hard-working residents just trying to exit on to the A10. That is not fair.

"I, of course, recognise that bad driving should be penalised, but local residents were given no warning this camera was going to be installed and I hope the council looks leniently towards those who live locally and were fined in the first few weeks."

Point of conflict: The yellow box at the junction of Carterhatch Lane and the A10 Great Cambridge Road, Enfield

Appeal: The woman was assaulted in Arnos Park

Police in hunt for park sex attacker

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

DETECTIVES are hunting a sex attacker who indecently assaulted a woman in a park.

They are appealing for witnesses to the incident, which happened in Arnos Park at 7.30pm on Tuesday, June 14.

The woman was attacked on a bridge over Pymmes Brook, which runs through the park, close to its Arnos Road entrance.

Detectives want to hear from anyone who was in the park at the time and saw a man matching the description they have issued.

They are also appealing to members of the public who might have seen him in the park after he committed the assault, or who might recognise his identity from the description.

He is described as black, about 6ft 3ins tall and in his late 40s or early 50s, with black braided hair.

He was wearing dark sunglasses, a baggy light grey or green T-shirt and beige/green trousers.

Anyone who has information should contact officers at Edmonton police station on 101, quoting reference 5213156/16.

To remain anonymous, call Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Cherishing memories of lost children

Special memories: Branwyn Roane, Lisa Dodd and Christina Sooren

BEREAVED families who have suffered the loss of a child came together to celebrate the life of their loved ones at an annual Memory Day in Enfield.

The event gave families the chance to meet each other, share their experiences and talk about their child.

Play specialist and bereavement co-ordinator Lisa Dodd works with children and families who have suffered a death.

Mrs Dodd said: "The death of a child is unimaginable to most parents and the day provides a chance for people to meet others who have been on a similar journey and understand what it means to have a child who has died.

"It's a really emotional day, but it's a way to keep the memory of these children alive."

The annual event was organised by the Enfield specialist nursing, play and bereavement team, who are part of Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Mental Health NHS Trust.

The morning focused on cherished memories and gave parents the chance to work on a canvas graffiti wall and a memory book which has a different page dedicated to every child.

Humanist celebrant Claire Boyle led the afternoon activities held at Chickenshed Theatre and singers from the theatre, in Chase Side, Southgate performed.

Life president – Enfield Over-50s Forum

WHenever I did something my old mum didn't approve of, she would say: "Well, you've made your bed, now you can lie on it."

However you and I may have voted in the referendum, the outcome has left the once United Kingdom more disunited than ever.

This is not just a case of people in Scotland, London, Northern Ireland and Gibraltar all voting to remain in the EU being pitted against the rest of the country.

The 52-48 per cent vote to leave the EU has led not only to a spate of shameful race hate attacks, but also to a dangerous young versus old fallout.

Surveys claim that the majority of people under 50 voted In while the majority of over-50s voted Out.

For the over-65s, the ratio was said to be 60-40 in favour of Out – leading some pundits to argue that we oldies will not have to live with the long-term consequences of the quit EU decision.

The under-65s accounted for 41 million eligible voters, compared with some 12 million pensioners, so it can't be claimed that it was oldies alone who turned the tide in favour of Out.

But that won't stop some people having a go at pensioners and I fully expect to see a backlash against our hard-won universal benefits.

We've already read that the triple-lock guarantee on pension increases only applies to the Cameron government.

So we need to be ready to meet any threats from his successor.

Does he think we have the memories of goldfish?

IT is with a sense of irony and despair that I read David Burrowes' statement ("I won't let A and E close", vows MP, Advertiser, June 22).

Does he believe that readers and constituents have the memory spans of the proverbial goldfish?

I believe that Mr Burrowes campaigned for the UK to exit the European Union.

His colleagues on the Brexit side promised that a "Yes" vote would lead to an extra £350million being available for the NHS – enough to build a new hospital each week, they said.

So what perfect timing. I assume that Mr Burrowes is lobbying the outgoing Prime Minister and his colleagues in the Department of Health to ringfence some of our country's newly acquired wealth to ensure that the new build at Chase Farm Hospital will have a fully functioning A and E, so that the crisis which they have caused can be averted and the pre-election promises of Messrs Cameron, Burrowes, De Bois, et al can be honoured.

People don't cause pollution – cars do

ENFIELD Council should be congratulated for having bid successfully for £30million investment into our borough.

We have poisonous air and kids forced into a sedentary existence. We have to make active travel easier in order to decrease the numbers of obese children in our borough. Cycle Enfield has that concept at its heart.

The increased bus journey times cited by Save Our Green Lanes amount to a two-minute increase over the entire route at peak times.

Also, the council's traffic model does not account for modal shift – people deciding that due to the improved conditions that they will walk, bike or bus instead of getting in their car.

The idea that improved conditions for pedestrians, cyclists and public transport users will increase air pollution is just silly. Cars cause pollution.

Cycle Enfield aims to make it easier for people to get out of their cars and make short Enfield journeys on foot, by bike or bus.

The idea that the council has failed to consult adequately with residents and businesses is also just wrong. For a relatively small stretch of road linking Palmers Green and Enfield Town, Cycle Enfield has consulted consistently with residents and businesses and taken on board their feedback at every stage, modifying the design.

The idea that Green Lanes needs to be saved is also laughable. It's a polluted, dangerous and congested road, which isn't a very pleasant place to be.

By improving conditions for walkers, cyclists and public transport users – reducing car numbers – the whole environment of Green Lanes will be improved, leading to increased numbers of short shopping trips and increased spending overall.

Tom Duce
Sandringham Close,
Enfield

It really is the only way to go

WE heard at the public meeting held to oppose Cycle Enfield on June 28 that cycling should be routed along back streets – but if we want fewer journeys by car, we must have cycle lanes on main roads. If cycle routes don't go directly to where people want to go, people won't cycle. They will continue to find driving more convenient.

Green Lanes is perfect as a cycle route. It takes you to shops, stations, schools and other town centres. It's wide and, better still, it's flat. Why should such an important transport corridor be exclusively for cars?

The Cycle Enfield design is based on internationally proven principles. Look at any European town where people cycle en masse – bikes and pedestrians are given the most direct routes. This means cycle lanes on main roads. To coax more people out of their cars is quite literally the only way to go.

Glad to see the back of TTIP

ENFIELD Green Party regrets the decision to leave the EU, but we recognise it is the decision of the people.

Many things, however, will not change. Geographically, culturally and politically, we will still be part of Europe – and our sovereignty will still be limited by a web of international treaties and relationships.

As we unweave the strands labelled "EU" there are some things we'll be glad to see go. Of these, the Trans-Atlantic Trade and Investment Partnership (TTIP) – the secret treaty that seeks to make our parliament subject to corporate courts – is the most toxic.

Some things we should keep. EU membership provides useful protections for health, human rights and environment. There is nothing at all un-British about such protections.

On both these the UK government has taken the wrong side. As we leave, those of us – clearly a majority – who reject TTIP and value these protections need to watch what's being done in our name. We need to insist on open access to the negotiating texts of the agreements replacing our EU membership and we need to organise to resist the underhand attacks on our rights that the Tories will make in the name of UK independence.

Chairman
Enfield Green Party

It happened to me as well

LINDSAY Rawlings' letter ("Punished for being honest?", June 29) described something similar to my experience with Enfield Council.

My mother died on December 31 and I must have spoken to someone at the council in January 2016 regarding council tax on her property because I had made myself a note that I should let them know when I had received probate.

At the beginning of May this year, when I had obtained probate, I rang the council. It proved impossible to get through to speak to anyone and nothing on the website was applicable.

I sent an email. I am still waiting for a reply. I put everything in a letter and posted it with a first-class stamp several weeks ago, and still nothing.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Food stylist creates quite a stir with first cook book

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

ONE of Jamie Oliver's food stylists, who grew up above her grandparents' restaurant has had her first cook book published.

As the publication date for Stirring Slowly neared, Winchmore Hill resident Georgina Hayden was busy making 15 layers of multi-coloured sponge to create a surprise cake for fashion designer Sir Paul Smith's birthday – as he is famed for his love of stripes and has been a key mentor for her boss.

The multi-coloured concoction will be cut in the shape of a rabbit – another of Sir Paul's favourite things.

Georgina, 34, developed her love of food at an early age living above her grandparents' Greek Cypriot restaurant in Tufnell Park, north London.

The family later moved to Muswell Hill and then to Palmers Green and Southgate.

In her teens, Georgina had a food stall selling breads, cakes and salad platters at the farmers' market in Aldermans Hill, Palmers Green. She then studied for a fine art degree at university.

During a work experience stint at Delicious magazine she realised that she could build a career styling food.

After college she started to work at the magazine and met Jamie Oliver's stylists.

She was recruited to the team after making a birthday cake at short notice and has been there for the past ten years.

"I've been involved in all his food campaigns, it's a really close knit team," she said.

She has also worked on styling food for the photos in many of Oliver's cookbooks.

Despite stylists of the past using tricks to make food look good, such as mashed potato for ice cream, Georgina said: "We never cheat. Jamie has to be able to eat it."

"I have special tools such as tweezers and paintbrushes to make things look OK."

Georgina has drawn on her travels and experience cooking with her grandmother Martha Socratous at her kitchen in Fore Street, Edmonton, for her own book.

"I've picked up experience working with Jamie and my family," she added. "I want to really make books that work."

Georgina is currently working on her second book about Cypriot and Middle Eastern cuisine.

Stirring Slowly is published by Square Peg, £20.

Deacons step up

A FORMER nurse is one of two new trainee vicars taking up posts in Enfield following their appointment by the capital's leading Anglican churchman.

Elizabeth Baughen, who worked as a nurse at Chase Farm and Barnet hospitals for 25 years, was among 32 men and women ordained as deacons by the Bishop of Stepney, the Rt Rev Richard Chartres, in a ceremony at St Paul's Cathedral on Saturday.

A trained counsellor, who previously served as a senior pastor at Christ Church, in Barnet, her new role is at St Andrew's, in Enfield Town.

Fellow deacon Vincent Sheehan takes up his appointment at St George's Church, Hertford Road, Freezywater.

They are among six newly ordained deacons appointed to churches in the Diocese of London's Edmonton area, which comprises the boroughs of Enfield, Barnet, Camden and Haringey.

The Bishop of Edmonton, the Rt Rev Rob Wickham, said: "North London is a place of much excitement and vibrancy and I am thrilled that those who are preparing for ordination in this world city exhibit such vibrancy."

"I am very much looking forward to working with them and discerning where God will be at work in their lives as we seek to share in the ministry of Jesus Christ and serve our very diverse communities."

The office of deacon is a step on the path towards priesthood and follows two to three years of training.

Ordained deacons: Matthew Foy, St Ann's, Tottenham, Elizabeth Baughen, St Andrew's, Enfield, Harry Lamb, All Saints, Friern Barnet, the Rt Reverend Bishop of Edmonton Rob Wickham, Vincent Sheehan, St George's, Enfield, Simon Walsh, St Anne's, Highgate, and Adele Burgess, St Mary the Virgin, Monken Hadley

Images released regarding attack

DETECTIVES have issued CCTV images of people they want to talk to after a man suffered a broken jaw in a racially motivated attack in Edmonton the run-up to Christmas last year.

The 34-year-old victim was approached by four teenagers as he was walking through South Mall at Edmonton Green Shopping Centre just before 8pm on December 4.

Police said they verbally abused him and made racial comments. He walked away, but was followed and assaulted.

The man is still being treated for his injuries.

Detectives are hoping that the public can help identify people they would still like to talk to.

They want to speak to three men who are thought to be teenagers.

A fourth man, who is thought to be about 18, was not captured on CCTV.

He was wearing dark clothing and is about 5ft 7ins tall.

Anyone who can help the inquiry should call police on 101 or 020 8345 4402, quoting the crime reference 5226266/15.

Residents keep up fight to save house

By Julia Gregory
julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS are calling for planners to reject a scheme to demolish a Victorian house. A new application has been submitted to knock down the house, in Wellington Road, Bush Hill Park, and replace it with eight flats. Last year an application to demolish the building was rejected by Enfield Council. However, resident Gillian Porter said: "I would rather it was retained, or they kept the facade and built within it." The property is just outside the Bush Hill Park conservation area and Ms Porter said she was worried that the area was losing some of its character. Stephann Makri, who lives nearby, said: "It's such a heritage asset to lose. The neighbours want to protect it." More than 750 people signed a petition opposing the initial plan last year. Iain Taylor, head of planning for Fusion Residential, which is acting for the applicant, said that it had been assessed by heritage experts. He said that some of the experts were working for the applicant and others for the council. Mr Taylor said: "All these experts have consistently found that although the property does have some small merits, it is far from being a well-preserved or indeed good example of the built form. "These assessments, including those by the council, when it was considering how to define the extent of the Bush Hill Park conservation area, reached the conclusion that the building was not suitable for inclusion within the conservation area itself, not worthy of inclusion on the council's own list of 'locally listed buildings', not suitable for inclusion on the National Statutory List and not even worthy of mention in the council's own Conservation Area Character Appraisal adopted just last year."

Pupils stand up for the less fortunate

KEEPING kids quiet is tough at the best of times – but for one school's pupils it was a great way to publicise how lucky they are. Children at Merryhills Primary held a themed week last week to raise awareness about youngsters who are unable to go to school. Reception pupils stayed silent for 15 minutes and Year 6 children for an entire Friday morning. Barbara Comley, in charge of moral, social and cultural welfare at the school, in Bincote Road, Enfield, said: "We are trying to raise awareness of the plight of children where they can't go to school – in parts of Africa, for example, and in some countries where girls are not allowed to go at all. And we are encouraging children to think about different aspects. Some of them, especially girls, are quite shocked when they learn they do not have equality." Posters, leaflets and blogging were also used to heighten awareness and the children made cardboard rucksacks to be delivered to MPs with messages asking them to speak up for education.

It all adds up for teachers at maths conference

TEACHERS multiplied their maths skills during a conference at an Edmonton school last week.

The all-day conference was held at Hazelbury Primary School, in Haselbury Road, on Thursday to improve teaching methods.

The conference, which was organised by Enfield Council's school improvement service, was led by internationally renowned expert professor Mike Askew and attracted maths teachers from 60 primary schools throughout the borough.

Professor Askew believes that the maths abilities of all pupils can be improved through rich, engaging and challenging problems.

He says that maths can be an exciting subject for children at primary school and should be taught using a wide variety of methods.

Ayfer Orhan, the council's cabinet member for education, said: "Our schools are already producing excellent work. This conference builds on it, harnessing the ambition of our teachers with new ideas to make learning for children fascinating, fun and a foundation for their futures."

Cinema is forced to close by alarm fault

FILMGOERS had tickets refunded after an Enfield cinema was forced to close unexpectedly for 24 hours.

The 15-screen Cineworld multiplex at Southbury Leisure Park, in Southbury Road, was shut all day on Wednesday last week.

A post on the cinema's Facebook page said it was shut "due to unforeseen circumstances".

A later statement from cinema manager Jag Singh revealed that the reason was a problem with a faulty alarm system.

"We would like to apologise to all our customers for any inconvenience caused," he said.

The cinema reopened on Thursday with a reduced service initially, according to Cineworld's Twitter feed.

Love is in the air: Gwendolen (Lucy Lawson) and Cecily (Sophie Farquhar) in The Importance of Being Earnest

Wilde's classic comedy gets an outdoor airing

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

"A HANDBAG?" Containing one of drama's most famous one liners, popularised by Dame Edith Evans, The Importance of Being Earnest is one of the UK's best-loved plays.

Oscar Wilde's comedy was first staged in 1895 when the playwright was at the height of his powers. Wilde described the drama as "a trivial comedy for serious people".

Essex-based DOT Productions (Destiny of Theatre) is bringing its version to Myddelton House Gardens, in Bulls Cross, Enfield, on Saturday.

Julia Magnay, the show's co-producer, said: "The Importance of Being Earnest is just a gift. It's so funny. Reading the script – none of it is wasted. You can't really chop bits out. People love it."

She revealed that audiences look forward to that famous line – and some of them even say it out loud along with Lady Bracknell.

The comedy revolves around the romantic liaisons of two men about town – Jack (played by Andrew Lindfield) and Algernon (Henry Proffitt), who use imaginary characters as convenient excuses when they want to avoid social engagements.

Jack, who is also known to his friend Algernon as Earnest, has also made up a wayward brother, also called Earnest.

Trouble ensues when he announces the death of Earnest, but not before Algernon has claimed to be that young man in order to woo his friend's ward of court.

It's a complicated series of entanglements as the characters tie themselves in increasingly tighter knots in their efforts to woo Gwendolen (Lucy Lawson) and Cecily (Sophie Farquhar), watched by the disapproving Lady Bracknell.

DOT specialises in comedic classics which the company takes on tour to a range of indoor and outdoor venues throughout the summer.

Ms Magnay added: "Myddelton House is such a great venue. We get a large audience. This year we have brought new staging for the show."

THE LEGEND OF TARZAN
(12A, 110 mins)

IT'S been almost 100 years since Edgar Rice Burroughs' muscular protector of the jungle swung into action on the big screen in the swaggering form of silent movie actor Elmo Lincoln.

Olympic swimmer Johnny Weissmuller popularised the iconic role in the 1930s and 1940s before more recent incarnations including Greystoke: The Legend Of Tarzan with Christopher Lambert and Disney's animated rendering.

Written by Adam Cozad and Craig Brewer, The Legend Of Tarzan is an entertaining and rumbustious romp that focuses on the love story between the orphaned hero and his plucky sweetheart against a backdrop of late 19th-century treachery.

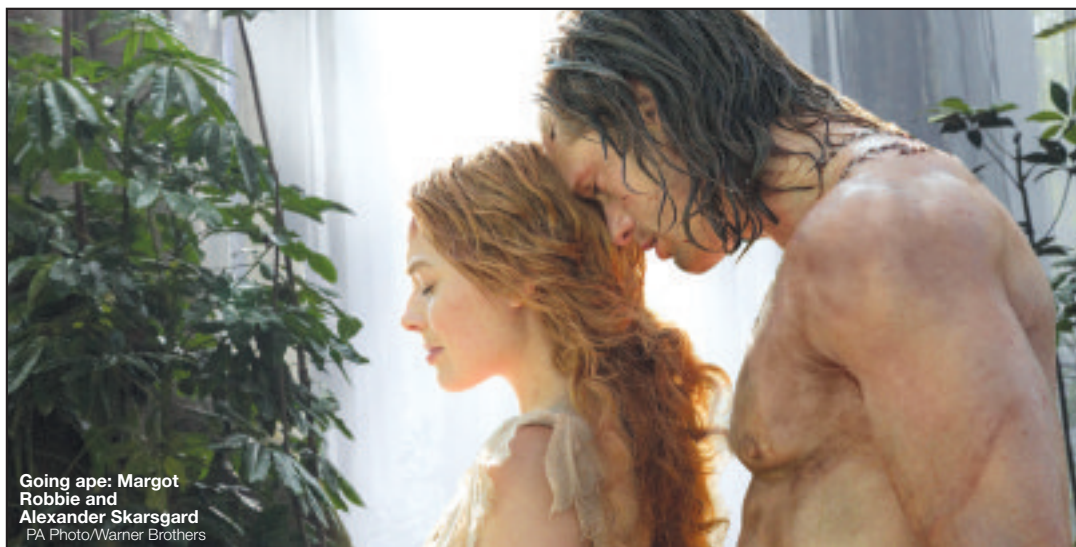

Director David Yates, who worked his magic at the helm of the final four films in the Harry Potter saga, orchestrates vine-swinging action sequences with aplomb, festooned with a menagerie of computer-generated animals that look incredibly realistic in close-up.

Digital might beats its chest in every lush frame including a bone-crunching fight between Tarzan and one of his ape brethren and a terrifying stampede.

However, Yates is careful to stoke the smouldering on-screen embers between an impressively bare-chested Alexander Skarsgard and the luminous Margot Robbie so we root for the lovers when the odds are stacked heavily against them.

It has been many years since Tarzan (Skarsgard) left behind the jungles of Africa to settle into gentrified life as John Clayton III, Lord Greystoke, with his beloved wife, Jane (Robbie).

The lush paradise of the Congo is a sweet, distant memory until the British prime minister (Jim Broadbent) passes on an invitation from King Leopold II

Going ape: Margot Robbie and Alexander Skarsgard

It's a jungle out there of Belgium to visit as a trade emissary of parliament.

John initially refuses, but gun-slinging American envoy George Washington Williams (Samuel L Jackson) persuades the Greystoke heir to go to investigate rumours that Leopold has enslaved tribes to build his railroad.

John, Jane and George depart for the Congo, unaware that they are pawns in a deadly game masterminded by Machiavellian Belgian envoy Captain Leon Rom (Christoph Waltz), who has agreed to deliver Tarzan to Chief Mbonga (Djimon Hounsou) in exchange for the legendary diamonds of Opar.

A stand-off ensues and Jane is captured as tantalising bait.

"He's Tarzan, you're Jane. He'll come for you," smirks Rom.

Faced with the prospect of losing his soulmate, John gathers together his animal friends and unleashes the primal warrior of the past.

Shot at Warner Bros. Studios, near Watford and on location around the UK, The Legend Of Tarzan captures the bare necessities of Burroughs' source text with gusto.

Skarsgard and Robbie are an attractive pairing, the latter imbuing her heroine with steeliness and resolve.

Two-time Oscar winner Waltz has portrayed too many sadistic schemers in recent years for his turn as the pantomime villain here to send shivers down the spine.

Denizens of the jungle snarl with more ferocity.

Enjoying breath-taking views and hassle-free outdoor space, this luxury new development in renowned Highgate offers purchasers the opportunity to own a superb new property which ticks the 'dream home box'.

Situated in a highly desirable leafy London suburb, the development of 85 one, two and three bedroom apartments and penthouses will benefit from panoramic views towards London and the scenic Highgate Wood. The homes feel a world away from the city with Hampstead Heath to the west and Waterlow Park to the south-east, offering some of London's more picturesque landscapes from the comfort of the balconies.

As with all Bellway homes, attention to detail in the apartments and penthouses is evident throughout. This is demonstrated in everything from the choice of materials to the sophisticated integrated appliances in the bespoke kitchens and contemporary sanitaryware in the bathrooms. The properties will enjoy a high quality specification, with open-plan living spaces, fitted wardrobes to master bedrooms, flooring throughout, under floor heating and an on-site concierge service. There will also be a limited number of private gated parking, available to purchase.

Located on the corner of Bishops Road and Church Road, on the site of the former Haringey Magistrates Court and Highgate Police Station, the homes are situated in a very convenient location for access to local amenities and commuting. The development is a two minute to Highgate Woods and a 10 minute walk to Highgate Village, offering an eclectic selection of shops, restaurants, cafés and bars.

Long considered one of the capital's most charming villages, the suburb of Highgate boasts a rich history. This distinguished neighbourhood, once part of the Bishop of London's hunting estate, today attracts house hunters to its two well-regarded private schools, Highgate School and Channing School. There are also a good number of state schools nearby including Saint Aloysius College for boys and Mount Carmel Catholic College for girls.

Sports and leisure facilities are in abundance in the area, with Archway Leisure Centre, just over a mile away and Mallinson Sports Centre close by. Part of the independent Highgate School, the latter is open to the public at certain times during the week and has a swimming pool, squash and tennis courts, and a gym. The parkland course, Highgate Golf Club is also less than a mile from the development.

The development is also situated just a stone's throw from Highgate tube station, from where frequent Northern line services provide connections into central London and the City in under 30 minutes. For travelling further afield, local road links include access to the A1 towards Islington in the south and the A406, North Circular, linking to the north.

Guide prices currently range from £600,000 to £1.75 million, for the one, two and three bedroom apartments at Highgate Court. For further information please visit www.bellway.co.uk or call 0333 205 141.

The perfect combination

By Matt Joy

SOME things haven't changed, namely the fact the Nissan GT-R is a combination of brutish power and sophisticated electronics delivering spectacular driving thrills – at an impressive price.

But the R35 generation first appeared in 2007, and although there have been tweaks in the past, this 2017 model-year version brings the most comprehensive update so far.

There are discreet, but worthwhile, changes to the exterior, including improved aero and sharper detailing, while, inside, the fascia has been revised substantially to make it more comfortable and easier to use.

Under the skin there are a host of revisions including more power, revised suspension and a stiffer body for improved handling.

The basic shape of the GT-R remains broadly unchanged, although there has been a subtle change to the C-pillar to reduce turbulence, which only the nerdiest of eyes would spot.

More obvious tweaks are made elsewhere, with the front end benefiting from a version of the Nissan family "V-grille" and a re-profiled lower bumper. The same goes for the side skirts and rear valance, which look sharper as well as managing airflow better, and the influence of the hottest Nismo GT-R model is clear to see.

There are some new colours to choose from, too, including a vibrant orange, plus a new alloy wheel design, all of which adds a dose of freshness. It is still unmistakably a GT-R and not a million miles from the previous generation, but this is the best-looking R35 to date.

More urgent changes were required in the cabin and the 2017 GT-R is all the better for a new dashboard layout.

There's a new display screen sitting up top while the climate controls have been grouped in their own space just below, as well as more sensibly-placed air vents. There's a new steering wheel, too, which carries audio and cruise control buttons more sensibly.

Nissan also claims improved materials and there's no doubt that the leather trim is of a better quality. The design is sensible and plain rather than eye-catching, but it works well and is easier to use. The bucket seats on the standard model are a little narrow across the back, but the Recaro model brings with it a pair of seats which are far superior in comfort and support.

The 2017 GT-R has an additional 20bhp compared to the outgoing model as well as a slight increase in torque, although more crucially maximum torque is available across more of the rev band.

From the driver's seat, you might not notice this increase, just that the GT-R is a ferociously fast machine. With drive distributed between all four wheels depending on the grip available and the fast-shifting dual-clutch transmission, acceleration is always available and relentless with it.

The changes to the suspension and body are subtle, too, but the upshot is that the 2017 GT-R feels more stable and more responsive, particularly on bumpy roads, and as a result is even easier to hustle along challenging roads. It's the combination of the steering accuracy, the unflappable suspension (providing you've selected the right setting for the road) and the sheer balance and stability that makes it not only hugely capable, but also a joy to exploit on the open road.

In the grand scheme of things, the GT-R remains something of a bargain. The "entry-level" Pure model is a fiver under £80,000, but cars with equivalent performance and spec cost more than £100,000. It's worth investing an extra £2,000 to get the Recaro model with its superior seats.

Personal

Companionship

Sincere man in seventies - I have a happy clean affectionate and kind wife, who has had a non alzheimers condition for eight years. This leaves her unable to talk meaningfully or reason properly. However it does not justify a carer at present as I can deal with it. But I am finding it difficult to run our home at the same time, therefore I am seeking a mature woman, non smoker, with a sense of humour and personality, as a househelper/companion with a driving licence, and ideally a basic internet knowledge, to eventually live in, if all works out well, to share the running of the house in a way to enrich the lives of all three of us compatible with our joint circumstances, friends and families. Separate accommodation within our house, board, lodging and a car is available and financial details negotiated, without the impersonal nature of a solely commercially employed agency housekeeper.

Athletes are in danger of losing their spot in the top flight

ENFIELD AND HARINGEY Athletic Club are in danger of being relegated from the top flight of the United Kingdom Women's League after trailing home in last place when they hosted the latest round at the Lee Valley Athletics Centre on Saturday.

The result leaves the club languishing at the foot of the table with just one meeting remaining, needing a dramatic transformation in their fortunes if they are to avoid the drop.

However, there were still some excellent individual performances on the day – with Margaret Adeoye enjoying an emphatic victory in the A-string 200metres (23.74secs) and Lina Nielsen sealing an equally comfortable win in the B-string race over the same distance (24.70secs).

The club's only other triumph came from Mary Iheke in the A-string 400m (52.94secs), while there was a second-placed finish from Kike Oniwinde in the A-string javelin (46.29m).

A busy day for Nielsen also saw her come third in the A-string 100m (12.28) and join forces with Iheke, Akesha Smith and Adeoye to finish in the same position in the 4x400m relay (3mins 41.93secs). Phillipa Wingate was third in the A-string hammer (58.07m).

Meanwhile, the senior men's team at Enfield and Haringey are just one place above the foot of Division One of the British Athletics League after finishing in eighth position in Saturday's meeting at Bromley.

The only individual victories came from Khai Riley-Laborde in the A-string 110m hurdles (13.86secs)

JOHN MACDONALD-FULTON

Racing clear: Lina Nielsen (number 33) on her way to winning the B-string 200metres on Saturday and Lawrence Davis in the A-string triple jump (14.77m).

However, there were a string of second-placed finishes from Ben Snaith in the A-string 100m

(10.64secs) and 200m (21.13secs), Paulos Surafel in the B-string

1,500m (3mins 57.54secs), Patrick Kari Kari in the B-string 200m (21.60secs), Snaith, Kari Kari, Kyron Williams and Darren Corbin in the 4x100m relay (41.56secs),

VERTONGHEN IS SIDELINED

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

KEY defender Jan Vertonghen is in danger of missing the start of the new Premier League season after suffering an ankle injury during Euro 2016.

The Tottenham Hotspur centre back tore multiple ligaments in his ankle during a training session on Thursday, causing him to miss Belgium's 3-1 defeat at the hands of Wales in the quarter-finals of the tournament in France on Friday night.

The injury is expected to rule Vertonghen out of action for at least six weeks, making him a major doubt for Spurs' Premier League opener at Everton on the weekend of August 13.

Meanwhile, Christian Eriksen is relishing the prospect of competing in the Champions League for Tottenham next season.

The Danish international midfielder is one of the few players in the Spurs squad who have previously played in the competition during his time with Ajax, and he believes that this experience will prove to be invaluable in the coming campaign.

"I think that everyone wants to assist but, of course, I would love to help the team as much as possible, whether that's by talking or showing the way," he said. "It's been a few years since I've been in the Champions League, but I think that it's going to improve us as a team.

"It's something that we as a club have wanted for a while now. We've been close in the last few years, but especially over the last year we've shown that we can do well.

"Of course we need to take it to the next step next season and in the Champions League I think we can do that. We can improve a lot more and a lot quicker, so I think it will be a fun season."

And Eriksen is confident that Spurs will be able to make a significant impact in Europe's premier club competition despite their lack of experience in the event.

"We still haven't tried playing against a big team in a really important, big game," he added. "We've played all the English teams and we can do really well against them – even against Manchester City last season we did well and they got to the semi-finals of the Champions League, so hopefully we'll be able to perform well too.

"We showed last season that we're capable of doing big things and playing really good football. We've proved that we are a difficult team to play against, but we are also very attack-minded.

"We're a team that wants to score a lot of goals, and if we want to play in the Champions League then we need to do all that."

Winning draw for Hornsey in derby

HORNSEY managed to snatch a winning draw from Saturday's derby match at home to Highgate in Division Two of the Middlesex County Cricket League despite almost slumping to a shock defeat.

The high-flying hosts began as strong favourites against a side who are just one place above the foot of the table, but there was little to choose between the teams in a closely fought encounter.

Hornsey decided to bowl first after winning the toss and the visitors found runs hard to come by as they struggled to 177-9 before declaring after the maximum 55 overs.

Sean Solia made an excellent 82 for the hosts in reply, but he received little support as Highgate plugged away well with the ball – with Robin Glassberg taking 4-56.

However, the visitors could not take the final wicket needed to secure victory and Hornsey were able to close on 141-9 off 42 overs – with their faster scoring rate enabling them to pick up the four points for a winning draw.

Elsewhere, North Middlesex pulled seven points clear of the relegation zone in the Premier Division after securing a crucial five-wicket win at home to Shepherds Bush.

A low-scoring encounter saw the visitors struggle after being put in to bat, needing an unbeaten 34 from Samuel Howell to enable them to make it into three figures before being dismissed for 117.

Joel Hughes (3-18), Jaron Semper (3-25) and Ethan Bamber (3-29) all bowled well for North Middlesex.

Adam Holmes (36) and Evan Flowers (30) then set the hosts well on the way to victory before Tom Nicoll's unbeaten 40 guided them to 121-5.

And North London eased to a crushing 145-run triumph at Harrow Town to climb to within four points of the promotion places in Division Three.

Hussain Shabbir smashed 119 and Simon Min-toft chipped in with 50 as North London declared on 245-8, and Geoff Jones then took 6-38 to help dismiss the hosts for just 100 in reply.

Coleman snatches a dramatic victory

JY-MEL COLEMAN was the hero for the London Skolars as they snatched a dramatic 23-22 victory at Gloucestershire All Golds in rugby league's Kingstone Press Championship One on Sunday.

A match of fluctuating fortunes saw the Skolars trailing heading into the final ten minutes, but Coleman – who was seemingly struggling with an ankle injury – held his nerve to slot over a touchline conversion of Sam Nash's try to level the scores before sealing victory by the narrowest possible margin with a 75th-minute drop-goal.

Coleman had also opened the scoring through a penalty, but it was the hosts who claimed the first try of the match on 13 minutes as Lewis Reece dived over the line.

Kieran Hyde converted, but he was unable to add the extra two points after Steve Parry claimed their second try three minutes later.

However, the Skolars suddenly came to life and scored three tries in quick succession to move 16-10 ahead by the interval – with Dave Williams, Will Lovell and Erjon Dollapi all touching down.

The start of the second half saw the All Golds come out with renewed purpose, and they deservedly got back on level terms on 50 minutes when Lamont Bryan crashed over for a try which Hyde converted.

The hosts continued to press and they went back in front shortly after the hour through a try from Reece which was again converted.

But the Skolars refused to lie down and Nash's try in the corner in the 71st minute set the stage for Coleman's heroics to give them victory.
